exzezxe   CGI Programming in Python

Common Gateway Interface (also known as CGI) is not a kind of language but just a specification(set of rules) that helps to establish a dynamic interaction between a web application and the browser (or the client application).

CGI is the standard for programs to interface with HTTP servers.

CGI programming is written dynamically generating webpages that respond to user input or webpages that interact with software on the server